THE GEORGIA BILL IN THE HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—There is a prospect of a lively time in the House over the Georgia Bill coming up for action. It reached that body early this afternoon, and was at once solved its destination to the Reconstruction Committee, to which Bingham reported. As it later here in the day, however, it was so referred, most of the members seeming to think that the easiest way of getting rid of it for the present. Bingham indicated a purpose to make an effort to get it up in the Senate committee, but it is not yet possible to say what decision will be reached, for the reason that the Committee will not hold a meeting for some days. Unless the Georgia question was considered by the House, it was not the disposition to have any vote on it, for the present, else considerable wrangling. Has the bar of the House already begun? If they are not, they will be very soon, with the Senate, and the Governor Whitely was very busy on the House a good part of the afternoon. The original supporters of the scheme to strengthen and consolidate the Republican party generally all vote to concur in the measure, if Bingham's lead of it in this direction. The object of that amendment was to provide for the election at a new Legislature next fall, and the Senate substitute does this and more too, by declaring that it shall be held under military authority. The Bullock lobby here—hearty and persistently declared that life and property of white men insecure in the states, and the House constituted to take it at its word and put the army again in control. The whole bill, in fact, is a measure for the purpose which the Governor and his party wanted to keep in existence two years longer, so that it might go on with its work. Of course, the Senate have both defeated him on this issue, and it only remains to be seen if the House will concur with the Senate, in rejecting the bill, or agree with the Senate in transmitting the State to General Terry's previous authority.

THE SENATE DISTRIBUTION.

The Georgia bill was disposed of immediately in the Senate, two hours after the Judiciary Committee of the Senate, two hours after it was received. The change under it—every in the House—is in the matter of the city Post Office, west to Judge Hughes, a lawyer here, formerly in Congress from Indiana, and said to be a man of ability. He is a brother of Dr. Hughes of the Railroad, in Georgia, would be at Senator Carpenter's command in his veiled Address Hughes' appointment. Allusions to the resignation of the Porter and Bullock lobby seated in the Senate, as the only way in which the aforesaid railroad ago from Michigan, and that this railroad is very much in favor of having the Georgia question settled. The effect of this last coincident. The evidence of the attempt at bribery is not yet complete, but two ministers of the committee—Brinton, even if it does not establish the actual fact.

THE PRESIDENT'S SUNDAY DISTRIBUTION.

In the President's Bulletin Inquiry, to-day, Dr. Boynton declared that he was the original Dewey of the Harvard University, and for some time Secretary of the board, was standard. He testified that those who constituted the majority of the board were appointed by the Senate, and after Gen. Howard came in. Howard's testimony to-day was to the effect that the Senate was appointed on behalf of Congress to express their appreciation of the great services of the railroad company, and hospitalities tendered them at Washington. The committee consists of Messrs. Fenton and Wheelbridge, on the part of the Senate; Messrs. Finch and Hudson, of the House, and General Howard, Secretary of State, and will report on the trains which convey the party to Mount Vernon to-morrow. The Committee met at 11 o'clock this morning, and were received at the depot by a number of Ohio Congressmen and members of the State Association. After a brief consultation together, the committee went to the White House at 12 M., and were successively presented to the President by Senator Sherman, and Congressman Garfield. The President graciously received the ladies, and conducted them throughout the mansion. The company then, separated, and proceeded to enjoy themselves throughout the remainder of the city, most of them leaving this evening for the doors of the Senate and House of Representatives, to which they had, by courtesy of the bodies, been invited. The proceedings of the National Legislature were watched with great interest.

THE LEGAL TENDER QUESTION DEFINITELY SETTLED OF.

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The Supreme Court this morning allowed the withdrawal of two of the cases from the docket, and decided to reheard the case on the remaining one, viz: Hepburn vs. Griswold, involving the constitutionality of the legal-tender act.

In the Supreme Court to-day, the Chief Justice gave the reason why a rehearing in the Hepburn vs. Griswold case, in which the Court in February last held the legal-tender act invalid, was granted. The Court, before its passage, was informed that the Chief Justice, in the case, desired to be present at the argument of some one of the cases involving the question, and the Court, in order to accommodate him in the case, desired to hear the argument of all the cases. The Chief Justice was present to-day, and the Court, though
